As with every community software product, we are very interested in your comments, suggestions for improvements, work-arounds, and bug reports. The bug report database is also hosted by SourceForge and can be found at the URL:

The CDAT community is growing rapidly and becoming much too large for individual user support. Fortunately, there are a lot of really savvy CDAT users who are willing to help others and/or willing to contribute to the development and growth of CDAT. Please visit the URL above to find additional support documentation, tutorials on CDAT, and FAQs.

Special Note: On occasion, members of the core CDAT development team present tutorials on the installation, use, and development of CDAT.
